Personal Statement:

The nature and demands of the speech-language pathology profession require that applicants possess personal attributes and motivation which complement intellectual abilities. To enable us to evaluate these qualities you are asked to prepare a personal statement, which is confidential in its use by the Department. This statement then, is an essential and important part of your application and is carefully assessed. We would like to know about your background and experiences, why you want to be a speech-language pathologist and why you chose FIU for your education. In addition, we are interested in your view of the field of speech-language pathology and how you see yourself using your education.

Please return this form to the Department along with your personal statement and copies of your unofficial bachelor's degree transcript. All paperwork must be submitted together.
